About National Volunteer Week

National Volunteer Week 2010: April 18–24, Celebrating People in Action, captures the meaning of this signature week:

Honoring the people who dedicate themselves to taking action and solving problems in their communities.

Established in 1974, National Volunteer Week has grown exponentially in scope each year, drawing the support and endorsement of all subsequent U.S. presidents, governors, mayors and other respected elected officials.

This year, Points of Light Institute is also honored to recognize the one-year anniversary of the Edward M. Kennedy Serve America Act and the creation of the Volunteer Generation Fund through a series of celebratory and service events across the nation.

National Volunteer Week 2010, Celebrating People in Action, presents an opportunity for individuals, families, nonprofit organizations and government entities alike to celebrate the ordinary people who accomplish extraordinary things through service.

National Volunteer Week embodies the energy and power volunteers evoke on a daily basis as they lead by example—not only encouraging the people they help, but motivating others to serve as well.
Step 1. Get Your Community Involved
Provide opportunities for members of your community to participate in projects as individuals or as a group. Engage volunteers, adopt neighborhoods and inspire others by example.

During this year’s National Volunteer Week celebration, thousands of volunteers throughout the country will participate in a variety of innovative, grassroots community projects designed to engage volunteers and community members in building strong, vibrant neighborhoods. This nationwide undertaking will include revitalizing community centers, rehabilitating parks, improving low-income homes, creating community art projects, mentoring, serving meals, developing community gardens and much more.

Step 2. Share Your Stories
Connect with other communities and organizations from around the nation and share inspirational stories about volunteer heroism and community transformation. Foster a new generation of volunteers.

Please make note of and record the following information regarding your 2010 National Volunteer Week activities:
• Number of volunteers
• Number of volunteer hours
• Number of projects
• Number of volunteer leaders
• Description of people impacted by projects
Step 3. Recognize and Thank Volunteers
Volunteer recognition is an extremely effective retention and recruitment tool. All of us want to feel valued and appreciated, and it’s been proven that recognition is the best and most productive means of doing so. Research conducted by Points of Light Institute and HandsOn Network reveals that recognition not only motivates volunteers, but also promotes public awareness in local communities.

We encourage you to recognize your outstanding volunteers by awarding them the President’s Volunteer Service Award. It’s the highest honor and most prestigious volunteer award directly associated with the White House and one that all Americans can aspire to achieve. Such a nationalized display of recognition during National Volunteer Week will not only leverage the nation’s focus on service, but also establish a direct link with your own community’s projects and activities and align your organization with a prestigious national award. Visit www.presidentialserviceawards.gov for more information on how to become a certifying organization.

“Volunteers are the only human beings on the face of the earth who reflect this nation’s compassion, unselfish caring, patience and just plain love for one another.”

For Immediate Release

Contact: [insert contact name, your organization’s phone and e-mail]

WHO: [list names of dignitaries attending your event]
WHAT: [briefly describe event]
WHERE: [event address]
WHEN: [event time and date]

WHY: National Volunteer Week 2010, Celebrating People in Action, honors those who dedicate themselves to taking action and bettering their communities. It’s also about inspiring, recognizing and encouraging people to seek out imaginative ways to engage in their communities — to put themselves at the center of social change.

Sponsored by Points of Light Institute and HandsOn Network—the nation’s largest volunteer network—National Volunteer Week was established in 1974 and has grown exponentially each subsequent year, with literally thousands of volunteer projects and special events scheduled throughout the week. And with the one-year anniversary of the Edward M. Kennedy Serve America Act, the creation of the Volunteer Generation Fund and the resonant call to serve from the President, this year will be even more energizing and inspiring.

Critical National Volunteer Week Planning Questions:

1. Which national volunteer award will you present to your volunteers?
   NOTE: There are two national award programs to choose from:

   President’s Volunteer Service Award — a non-competitive award that all Americans are eligible to receive, determined by the number of volunteer hours served.

   Daily Point of Light Award — a competitive daily award honoring one exceptional volunteer or volunteer effort from across the entire nation.

2. Will you host a formal event to present awards?

3. Which gift item will you present to your outstanding volunteers?

Timeline: Countdown to National Volunteer Week, April 18–24, 2010.

Preparatory Steps:

1. If you have not done so already, please register as a Certifying Organization for the President’s Volunteer Service Award. Visit www.PresidentialServiceAwards.gov for more information.

2. Send the enclosed proclamation Request Letter to your local mayor, county executive, governor, etc.

3. Begin planning your event: identify and confirm venue, invite speaker(s) and local dignitaries, hire event photographer, etc.
2010 General Planning Timeline

Beginning in March

- Order volunteer recognition items and small tokens of thanks for your volunteers.
- Write National Volunteer Week event speech, including thoughtful volunteer-related quotes from famous public figures. Also, if appropriate, bolster your speech with encouraging, volunteer-related statistics.
- Follow up by contacting elected officials regarding the status of your proclamation request.

Mid-March

- Two weeks prior to your event, send the customized news release to your local newspaper’s community calendar editor and targeted reporters. Remember to make follow-up phone calls reminding them about your upcoming National Volunteer Week activities.

April 10

- Place the National Volunteer Week logo on your organization’s Web site—the logo is available in various formats and sizes at: www.HandsOnNetwork.org/events/nvw2010

Four days before event

- Send reporters your customized media advisory and make follow-up phone calls to ensure of their receipt.

National Volunteer Week

- April 18–24, 2010

Day after event

- Send event photos and “Thank you” notes to journalists who attended the event, and don’t forget to include those reporters who did not attend but expressed interest. Lay the groundwork for next year’s activities by keeping future lines of communication open with all media. Next year they may accept your invitation, and you’ll find the exposure was worth the extra effort.

Dear [Mayor/Governor/Other Elected Official name]:

As we approach the 37th annual National Volunteer Week, April 18-24, we ask you to honor [city or state] volunteers who tirelessly share their time and talent with those in need. Your support can challenge and encourage the people you represent to commit to sustained and future volunteer service. [Insert a thank you for past participation, if relevant].

National Volunteer Week is about inspiring, recognizing and encouraging people to seek ways to engage in their community. It’s about meeting our challenges not as isolated individuals, but as members of a community, with all of us working together.

Enclosed you will find a sample proclamation and more information about National Volunteer Week, which is sponsored by Points of Light Institute and HandsOn Network. This special week was designated by executive order by President Richard Nixon in 1974. Every President since has signed a proclamation of support announcing National Volunteer Week as the national week of recognizing volunteers.

[name of your organization] plans to honor the volunteers in [name of your city] by [insert SHORT description of your planned recognition events]. We invite you to join our celebration of volunteers at [insert information about your event].

If you have any questions, please call [local contact]. We would be honored to have you participate and look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

[your name]

WHEREAS, the entire community can inspire, equip and mobilize people to take action that changes the world; and

WHEREAS, volunteers can connect with local community service opportunities through hundreds of community service organizations like HandsOn Network affiliates and volunteer centers; and

WHEREAS, individuals and communities are at the center of social change, discovering their power to make a difference; and

WHEREAS, during this week all over the nation, service projects will be performed and volunteers recognized for their commitment to service; and

WHEREAS, the giving of oneself in service to another empowers the giver and the recipient; and

WHEREAS, experience teaches us that government by itself cannot solve all of our nation’s social problems; and

WHEREAS, our country’s volunteer force of over 61 million is a great treasure; and

WHEREAS, volunteers are vital to our future as a caring and productive nation; and

NOW, THEREFORE, I, [name/title] do hereby proclaim

April 18–24, 2010
National Volunteer Week

In [city/state], and urge my fellow citizens to volunteer in their respective communities. By volunteering and recognizing those who serve, we can replace disconnection with understanding and compassion.

Signed this [DATE] day of [MONTH], 2010
Established in 1974, National Volunteer Week has grown exponentially in scope each year since, drawing the support and endorsement of all subsequent U.S. presidents, governors, mayors and other respected elected officials.

National Volunteer Week is about inspiring, recognizing and encouraging people to seek out imaginative ways to engage in their communities. It’s about demonstrating to the nation that by working together, in unison, we have the fortitude to meet our challenges and accomplish our goals. National Volunteer Week is about taking action, encouraging individuals and their respective communities to be at the center of social change—discovering and actively demonstrating their collective power to foster positive transformation.

National Volunteer Week is not only our moment in time to celebrate our volunteers, but to enable a nation to share ideas, practices, and stories, wherever they happen, and shaping a movement to re-imagine the notion of citizenship for the 21st century.
